LESSON 22 TEACHER’S GUIDE

The First Woman Doctor
by Joanne Mattern

Fountas-Pinnell Level P

Biography

Selection Summary
A friend’s illness inspired Elizabeth Blackwell to become, in 1849, the country’s first woman doctor. She was a founder of the Women’s Medical College in 1868. In 1869 she helped to found the London School of Medicine for Women.

The First Woman Doctor by Joanne Mattern

Build Background
Help students use their knowledge about women's rights and civil rights to visualize the selection. Build interest by asking a question such as the following: Have you ever been the only boy or girl in a group? Read the title and author and talk about the cover illustration. Tell students that this is a biography, which is about the life of a real person, Elizabeth Blackwell. Ask students to describe what kinds of features they can expect to find in a biography.

Introduce the Text
Guide students through the text, noting important ideas and helping with unfamiliar language and vocabulary so they can read the text successfully. Here are some suggestions:

Page 4: Explain that in 1849 Elizabeth Blackwell became the first woman to graduate from medical school in the United States.
Suggested language: Ask: What kinds of things would you need to be informed about if you wanted to become a doctor?

Page 7: Tell students that in the 1840s women and men were not treated equally.
Suggested language: During Elizabeth’s lifetime, women were denied the right to vote. Ask: What else do you think they were denied?

Page 10: Have students look at the sidebar on A Doctor’s Course of Study. Ask: Which course’s title means the study of what things are made of?

Suggested language: Why do you think the author included this summary of Elizabeth Blackwell’s life at the end of the biography instead of at the beginning?

Now go back to the beginning of the biography and read to find out about the many important things Elizabeth Blackwell accomplished.

Target Vocabulary
amendment – a change made to correct or add something, p. 7 approve – to like and agree with something candidates – people who are hoping to be chosen for a job or to win an election denied – not allowed to have something, p. 7 disorderly – behaving in a way that is out of control or against the rules, p. 10 informed – someone who has information or knowledge, p. 4 intelligent – person has the ability to learn, think, and understand, p. 4 legislature – a group of people who make laws for a state or country politics – the work of forming and running governments polls – the places where people go to vote in an election
Read
Have students read silently while you listen to individual students read aloud. Support their understanding of the text as needed.

Remind students to use the Infer/Predict Strategy as they read. Tell them to think about what they can infer in regard to the reasons that Elizabeth decided to educate herself and become a doctor.

Discuss and Revisit the Text
Personal Response
Invite students to share their personal responses to the text. Suggested language: Have you ever set a difficult goal like Elizabeth did? Why do you think Elizabeth was able to succeed?

Ways of Thinking
As you discuss the text, help students understand these points:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Thinking Within the Text</th>
<th>Thinking Beyond the Text</th>
<th>Thinking About the Text</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• It was her friend, Mary Donaldson, who suggested Elizabeth become a doctor.</td>
<td>• Courage and determination can help people reach goals, even when others make fun of them.</td>
<td>• Photographs and illustrations aid visualization and comprehension.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Elizabeth's parents made sure she had a good education at a time when few girls went to school.</td>
<td>• Individuals with a good education can use their skills to help others.</td>
<td>• Chapter headings introduce key events in chronological order.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Elizabeth helped start two medical schools for women so other women could become doctors, too.</td>
<td></td>
<td>• Summary lists major accomplishments.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Choices for Further Support
• Fluency Invite students to choose a passage from the text and demonstrate phrased fluent reading in a readers’ theater. Remind them to use any cues provided by question marks, exclamations, or dashes to make their reading livelier and to convey the author’s tone and meaning.

• Comprehension Based on your observations of the students’ reading and discussion, revisit parts of the text to clarify or extend comprehension. Remind students to go back to the text to support their ideas.

• Phonics/Word Work Provide practice as needed with words and word parts, using examples from the text. Explain that prefixes such as de and dis can be added to a root word to make a negative. Point out examples in the text, such as disorderly (p. 10), and have students look for additional examples.
Writing about Reading

Critical Thinking
Have students complete the Critical Thinking questions on BLM 22.7.

Responding
Have students complete the activities at the back of their book, writing their answers in their Reader’s Notebook. Use the instruction below as needed to reinforce or extend understanding of the comprehension skill.

Target Comprehension Skill

Cause and Effect Remind students that a cause happens first to make something happen. An effect is what happens later as a result of the cause. Model how to add details to the Graphic Organizer, using a “Think Aloud” like the one below:

Think Aloud
As a result of going to medical school, Elizabeth was able to open a medical clinic in her home in New York. She also helped found two medical schools for women. These are effects of her going to medical school.

Practice the Skill
Have students share examples of other causes and effects in the text. What happened? What was the cause?

Writing Prompt: Thinking Beyond the Text
Have students write a response to the prompt on page 6. Remind them that when they think beyond the text, they use their personal knowledge to reach new understandings.

Assessment Prompts
• What is the meaning of amendment on page 7?
• The first paragraph on page 9 is mainly about _____________________________.
• Which sentences from the biography show that Elizabeth cares about others?
Critical Thinking

Read and answer the questions. Possible responses shown.

1. Think within the text What caused Elizabeth Blackwell to first think about becoming a doctor? She thought she might be able to make a difference for other women. Elizabeth found out later that the students at Geneva only voted her in because they thought her application was a joke, and the directors did not expect her to show up.

2. Think beyond the text Read the Doctor’s Course of Study on page 10. Which class would you be most interested in? Why? I would be most interested in botany because I love working in our garden at home with my mother.

3. Think about the text The author writes that Blackwell had “strength and courage.” What text details support this statement? Elizabeth studied on her own while waiting to be accepted to medical school. She worked hard even though her classmates and teachers thought she couldn’t do the work. Elizabeth opened a clinic in her own home when other offices did not accept her.

4. Making Connections Elizabeth Blackwell helped bring change for women and change in education. She also helped the poor. What other woman that you have read about helped one of these causes? Tell in your own words what she did. She studied in France and England.

Informed can mean a person who was told about something. It can also mean a person who knows about things. See page 4, for the latter use of informed.

Oral Language Development

Check student comprehension, using a dialogue that best matches your students’ English proficiency. Speaker 1 is the teacher, Speaker 2 is the student.

Write your answer in your Reader’s Notebook.
Thinking Beyond the Text

Think about the questions below. Then write your answer in one or two paragraphs.

Remember that when you think beyond the text, you use your personal knowledge to reach new understandings.

On page 10, the author writes “Elizabeth did not worry what other people thought.” Why was this an important characteristic for her to have? Do you think people should not worry about what other people think of them? Why or why not? Use examples from the text and from your own experience to support your answer.
Critical Thinking

Read and answer the questions.

1. Think within the text  What caused Elizabeth Blackwell to first think about becoming a doctor?

2. Think within the text  Blackwell was accepted to Geneva Medical School. What did she later find out about this?

3. Think beyond the text  Read the Doctor’s Course of Study on page 10. Which class would you be most interested in? Why?

4. Think about the text  The author writes that Blackwell had “strength and courage.” What text details support this statement?

Making Connections  Elizabeth Blackwell helped bring change for women and change in education. She also helped the poor. What other woman that you have read about helped one of these causes? Tell in your own words what she did.

Write your answer in your Reader’s Notebook.
Elizabeth Blackwell was born on February 3, 1821, in Bristol, England. Her parents believed in equal rights for men and women. This was very unusual at the time.

Elizabeth’s parents made sure she had a good education. As a result, she grew up to be an intelligent and informed young woman.

In 1832, the Blackwells moved to the United States – to Cincinnati, Ohio. Then, just five years later, in 1838, Elizabeth’s father died.

The Blackwells did not have much money. To help pay the bills, Elizabeth, her mother, and two of Elizabeth’s sisters started a boarding school for girls.
